

The Caledonian Mercury.

Edinburgh, Thursday, November 27, 1729.

From the Evening Post, Nov. 20,

Moscow, Oct. 29.

OUR Emperor has now declared, that he is absolutely determined, henceforth to make this Capital the Seat of his ordinary Residence, for these Reasons: 1. To be near the Persian Conquests, of which our Court resolves, at what Price soever, to keep Possession. 2. With regard to the Trade of these Regions, which is designed to be put in a flourishing Condition, and which is now judged the only sure Means of enriching the Inhabitants, and of insuring them to Labour. 3. Because the Emperor's Person is thought to be in greater Security here than elsewhere. 4. Because it is requisite to conceal from the European Potentates his Imperial Majesty's Views and Designs, as likewise to prevent the Corruption of his Ministers, 5. The better to civilize and polish the People, render them expert in the Art Military, fortify our Frontiers, and put the Finances on a sound Footing; all which is easier, and with more Security effected under the Eye of the Sovereign, when he is in the Center of his Empire, than when his Seat is remote.

Lond. Nov. 20. On Thursday last was buried at Melbury, the late Duchess of Hamilton and Brandon, this being the Seat of her Ancestors, the ancient and honourable Family of the Strongways, who were not more distinguished by an ample and plentiful Fortune, than by the Inheritance of all the most amiable, as well as manly and heroic Virtues which could be wished, to maintain the Honour and Character of the most illustrious Name.

Her Grandfather Giles Strongways, Esq; was not only a great Sufferer in his Fortune, for the Royal Cause in the Civil Wars, but endured a long Imprisonment in the Tower, and in Memory of his Deliverance he struck several noble Medals, both in Gold and Silver, having on one Side his Head finely done, and on the Reverse the Sun breaking out from a Cloud, shining on the Tower, with this Legend, Deusque Aduersa decurrit; Many of these he gave his Friends, after the Restoration, having presented the first to King Charles II. who always honoured him with particular Marks of his Attention and Esteem.

One of the Family was from the Time of the Restoration, to the last Male Heir in the Reign of his late Majesty King George, constantly and unanimously chosen Knight of the Shire for the County of Dorset. They had the Happiness to join to a disinterested Loyalty and Duty to the Crown, the most firm and affectionate Zeal for the Support and affectionate Defence of the Liberties of their Country.

These truly noble Qualities, with a generous Hospitality, and an extensive Beneficence and Goodness, will for ever preserve their Name and Family in the just Esteem and Veneration due to their Merit. And this was in part shewn by the moving Concern which all Ranks and Degrees in the Neighbourhood expressed at her Grace's Interment, to whom she had been long endeared by the Exercises of all the Virtues of a private Life. And those who had the Happiness of her Acquaintance, knew she was enabled by an excellent Understanding, to support the highest Rank with a becoming Dignity.

Her Grace died on her Journey to Bath, after a very tedious Illness, which she bore with great Patience and Resignation; and was visibly bless'd with the Rewards of her early and unaffected Piety, by the steady and calm Resolution she shewed in her last Moments.

We hear that the said late Duchess did leave to his Grace's Brother, the Lord Anne Hamilton, a very considerable Legacy; and likewise Legacies to his Grace's Sisters, the Lady Charlotte, and the Lady Susan, who were with her at her Death.

Wye's Letter verbatim, London, Novem. 22.

Since our last arrived a Mail from France.

Letters from Dublin of the 11th instant say, That the House of Commons have agreed that a Sum of 2000 L. per Annum for two Years, be given the common Rights, in either of the Kingdoms, as the Natural-born Subjects themselves. But why do I talk more of that Treaty? Mr. Lacey has since ventured to step in here upon his private Affairs; but an Officer was sent after him, and there is now an Order to stop him even in the Belle Ville. And yet the Governor Refused to declare for what Crime he is pursued.

Here is as much Encouragement given to Trade, as there is Justice done to the publick Faith: English Merchants, no doubt, will be fond of letting their Effects lie in Dunkirk, if the old Spirit of Privateering should revive. For my part, as soon as my Affairs can be settled, I design to remove to a Place of better Security. I only wish that the Credit and Honour of the English Name may be always so supported on this Side, that whereas a few Years ago it moved Terror, it may never stir up Contempt.

I am, Yours, &c.

Wise's Letter verbatim, London, Novem. 25.
Since our last arrived a Mail from France, Holland and Flanders.

We have Letters by the French and Holland Mails from Berlin giving Hopes, that the Congress at Brunswick would soon terminate in an amicable Manner; the King of Great Britain having by his Minister declared to the Prussian Court, that he consents that the Affair of 200 Men whom Prussia reclaims, be referred to the Arbitration of the Princes Mediators.

The Advices from Seville relate, that their Joy was universal and inexpressible at the Conclusion of the Peace, which was signed the 9th Instant N. S. by the Marquis de la Paz and Monsieur Paitipu, in the Name of the King of Spain; by the Marquis de Brancas, in the Name of the King of France; and by Mr. Stanhope and Mr. Keene, in the Name of the King of Great Britain.

The Ambassador from the States General daily expects full Powers from their High-Mightinesses to sign likewise this Treaty; the Articles whereof will not be published, till ratified by the interested Powers.

We hear that a certain great Man, in a late Conversation declared, that the Treaty concluded above mentioned, was honourable and advantageous to this Nation; and that there was Room left for the Emperor to come into it. 'Tis said there will shortly be such a Reduction of the Land Forces; that 6000 Men will be thereby discharged,

By the Flanders Mails we are told, that a Marriage was on Foot between the King of Sardinia, and the Princess Dowager Elizone of Tuscany; Which if so, his Majesty may perhaps oppose the projected Succession of Don Carlos to that Dutchy.

But whatever Intrigues may be carrying on at certain Courts, they are not able to disconcert the Measures agreed on between the Allies of Hanover and the Crown of Spain; from whence our Merchants private Letters to Day give an Account of very great Rejoicings throughout the Kingdom, upon the Conclusion of the Peace. 'Tis hoped we shall by the next Mail have an Account of the Dutch Ambassador's having signed the Treaty, as well as those of England and France have done with the Ministers of Spain.

Letters from Dublin which arrived Yesterday say, that a great Progress was already made in the Affair touching the Reduction of 6000 Soldiers; and it is discoursed that they are to be allowed their Cloaths, and half a Month's Pay for their Subsistence, till they can get into some Employment. They add, that by the great Pains and Industry of the Parliament, such Employment will be found for the Poor at home, as will prevent their going abroad to seek it: That a Silk Manufactory was set up at Dublin, and carried on with great Approbation; and that very considerable Quantities call'd Irish Tabbies, were made and sold daily.

Agreeably to what we mentioned sometime ago, his Excellency William Stanhope Esq; is created a Peer of Great Britain, by the Title of Baron of Harrington. Mr. Serjeant Birch is made Cartsor Baron, in Room of Sir William Thompson, who was last Sunday introduced by Sir Robert Walpole to the King, and kiss'd his Majesty's Hand for the Place of Baron of the Exchequer, Mr. Bostock is said to be landed in Holland.

Wednesday upwards of 20 Persons returning home from the Market at Warrington in Lancashire, and passing the River Mersey, were carried away by the Rapidity of the Floods, and all of them with their Horses were drowned.

From the London Gazette, Nov. 25.

Whitehall, Nov. 24. A Spanish Courier arrived here this Evening from Seville, being despatched by the Marquis de la Paz, Secretary of State to the King of Spain, with his Catholick Majesty's Letters of Notification to his Majesty and to the Queen, upon the Birth of an Infanta, of whom the Queen of Spain was safely delivered the 17th Inst. N. S. This Express brought Letters of the same Date from Mr. Stanhope, his Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary, and Mr. Keene, his Majesty's Minister there, with an Account, That the Accession of the States General to the Treaty of Peace and Friendship lately concluded between the Crowns of Great Britain, France and Spain was settled; and that it was expected, that the Instruments for that Purpose would be signed in two Days by the Ministers of the respective Powers.

From the Evening Post, Nov. 23.

Seville, Nov. 10. The Articles of the new Treaty of Peace and Amity are not yet made publick, nor will they be published, till Ratified by the interested Potentates. They assure us however, that it is stipulated, That the Subjects of the three Powers in the Hanover Alliance, shall have Liberty to settle in all the Maritime Places of Spain, in order to carry on their Commerce in all Security, with the same Privileges as heretofore.

That Day, two of the twelve Companies of Cadogan's Regiment quartered in Canongate, were broke; and we hear that they are soon to proceed to disband several of the private Men of the ten Standing Companies.

On Saturday the Honourable Company of Hatters Plate was run for, and won by the Rt. Hon. the Lord Somerville's Horse Merry Harry. The Magistrates of this City gave no Entertainment on this Occasion; their Honours intending to husband the City's Patrimony in a more fugal manner than hitherto practised.
